

TRADE DONATION TO BUY MEDICINE

Contribution of $250 Will Alleviate Distress Among Guardsmen's Families.

The Board of Trade has turned over to the Citizens' Welfare Association $250 which was raised on subscription. This sum will be at once used to alleviate the distress in the 150 families of District Guardsmen that are suffering from sickness and want.

These cases include 156 children under 14 years of age who have become ill, most of them because of improper and insufficient nourishment. And efforts are being made to divide the money received yesterday in drug and grocery funds. Both the drugstore and the grocer have allowed a fair discount on the purchases made through the association, but the two bills have been draining every resource of the association's fund.

Mrs. Alice I. Stuart, in charge of the association, announces that money has just come in time to meet some stringent obligations. Some more funds must be forthcoming if the work is to be adequately carried on, she says. The children and their mothers must be taken care of during their period of distress with the necessary medicines and groceries.

Nearly every citizen's organization, however, has promised to continue the work of subscription with each individual member. And John Dolf, president of the Citizens' Welfare Association, reports that funds soon will be coming in.

POLICE AFTER WOMEN IN "RED LIGHT" AREA

Special to The Washington Herald.
Philadelphia, Aug. 4.—Private detectives, acting under instructions from the grand jury, last night made a tour of cabarets, cafes frequented by women and back rooms of saloons in the Tenderloin and the Columbia avenue sections of the city.

They found women who were the occupants of disorderly houses now closed by the police circulating freely among the patrons of various places, in many instances with the knowledge of the proprietors. They found these women, many of them even now under bail, awaiting trial as a result of the big raid on July 15, playing their same old game, only in a slightly different way to suit new conditions, and this time in more public places.

Charles Henward, aged 75, of Eastport, Me., is probably the oldest active teamster in that State. He has been in the business sixty-three years, beginning as an assistant to his father when he was twelve.

CUPID TAKES VACATION; ONLY TWO ASK TO WED

Third Couple Might Have Been Granted License Had Not They Looked So Youthful.

Cupid almost forgot Washington yesterday.

Col. W. A. Kroll, Cupid's legal representative, stationed at City Hall, issued but two marriage licenses yesterday, and came near issuing a third, but was restrained by the youthful appearance of the prospective groom.

When Kroll arrived yesterday he found Rufus E. Brant and Annie E. Jones waiting for him at the door. They said they left their homes in Walkertown, N. C., the night before under cover of darkness, arriving in Washington at 7 o'clock in the morning, and had been waiting for him.

Brant said that he was 21 and that the girl was 18. Col. Kroll seriously doubted this and suggested that they take a walk around the block and think it over. They returned later, their minds unchanged, but the youngster was unable to convince the man behind Cupid's counter of his age.

Nobody else asked for a license until about noon. Another was issued late in the afternoon.

Col. Kroll states that this is equal to the lowest record that has ever been established at the City Hall.

STIFFENS SHARK WITH BALL BAT

Mattituck Shortstop Handed Man-ater "Clean-up" Wallop Across the Snout.

Southold, L. I., Aug. 4.—Paul E. Taylor and Lawyer Charles Stephenson, of Brooklyn; Arthur Goldsmith, of South Orange; Elections Commissioner Korn, of this place, and Walter Grabie and "Slats" Reeve, of Mattituck, had thrilling sport catching a huge shark in the sound off Mattituck yesterday afternoon. They landed him finally and he was brought to this place, where over 1,000 persons "viewed" him as he lay in front of the savings bank. The big fellow measured 10 feet and 3 inches and weighed over 300 pounds.

Just what variety he is, is disputed by old salts, as usual. Some said: "He's a genuine man-eater," while others claimed as positively that he was a "harmless" variety.

"Slats" is a veritable shark catcher. Learning that he was going out again yesterday the others asked to go along. They went fishing and took shark hooks with them. They had hardly put the hooks overboard when Mr. Korn received word on his hat that nearly pulled him overboard. Others also quickly grabbed the rope and they hung on for dear life. The boat was yanked by this way and that and nearly upset by the tearing of the big fish. Gradually the fish was tamed out and the men got him alongside of the boat. He was then far from dead and snapped viciously at his captors.

"Slats" is the famous shortstop on the Mattituck ball nine. He believes that oughly in baseball bats for most all purposes and he had a supply of them in the boat purposely to kill a shark if he caught one. He handed one to Mr. Korn.

Korn whiffed away and hit nothing. He tried two or three times and didn't hit anything but water.

"Gracious, Korn, you never made a hit in your life," said Slats.

"Didn't, eh? How about the time I voted twice and landed a job for Sandy Adams?"

"That's so. I'm all through," replied Slats.

But he took the bat just the same, and with one crack he hit the shark on the snout and he straightened out.

"There, that's what I call a home run," said Slats. "Now he's safe."

And with that they loaded the fellow aboard and took him home.

THREE SEEK DIVORCE IN DISTRICT COURTS

Three suits for divorce and one for maintenance were filed in the District Supreme Court yesterday.

Mrs. Dorothy K. Butler, alleging cruelty, desertion, and non-support, filed suit for a limited divorce from Timothy J. Butler. They were married in 1908, the petition states, and lived together until 1914. They have two children.

Frank Rosenberg filed suit for absolute divorce against Anna Rosenberg. Rosenberg charges desertion and misconduct, and says that they were married in 1906 and separated in 1913.

Katie M. Edwards filed suit for limited divorce against John T. Edwards, charging cruelty. The petition states that they were married in 1900 and have two children. Chief Justice Covington has cited the defendant to appear on August 8 to show cause why he should not pay all money.

Little Galt filed suit for maintenance against her husband, Herman Galt, alleging cruelty and inadequate support. She charges that her husband on July 23 ordered her out of their home. Chief Justice Covington has cited the husband to appear on August 8.

U. S. MUST QUIT MEXICO, SAYS CARRANZA NOTE

Document Implies Commission Will Not Discuss Issues Until the Demand Is Met.

Gen. Carranza's reply to the American note accepting the commission idea for settling the differences between the two governments and urging an extension of the powers of the commission beyond the limits set by Gen. Carranza, was delivered to the State Department yesterday by Ambassador Designate Eliseo Arredondo.

In this reply Carranza accepts his own proposals, but dissents, diplomatically, from the suggestion of this government. His declaration that instructions have been given to his commissioners "to devote their attention preferably" to the three issues he stated in his original proposal for the creation of a commission, was interpreted by many officials to mean that he expected the commission to limit its work to recommendations for the solution of these three issues and that he reserved the right of accepting or rejecting at a later time the State Department's proposal for the broadening of the initiative of the commission.

The Carranza note means, in the opinion of officials, that Carranza will insist upon the withdrawal of the American troops from Mexico as a condition precedent to any settlement of other questions.

"DRY" FORCES AT WORK IN MARYLAND COUNTY

Prince Georges Temperance Union
Starts Active Prohibition Campaign.

Washington is interested in the campaign now being waged in Prince Georges County for the prohibition of the liquor traffic.

The Citizens' Temperance Union of the county, organized about a year ago, made the fight that resulted in the election of representatives in the Maryland House of Delegates pledged to the proposition of permitting the county to vote on the question of prohibition.

Portions of the county are now dry, but under the act of the legislature it is provided that the entire county will vote on the question, but the dry territory will remain dry even though the vote should fall in favor of the measure for the entire county. An aggressive campaign now is being conducted throughout the county.

The itinerary of campaign meetings scheduled for August 1-15 follows: August 1, Oxen Hill; August 2, Piscataway; August 3, T. B.; August 4, Groome; August 5, Centerville; August 6, Capitol Heights; August 8, Mt. Rainier; August 9, Bowie; August 10, Bladensburg; August 11, Forestville; August 12, Laurel; August 14, Hyattsville; August 15, Upper Marlboro and Lanham.

CANDIDATE HUGHES READY TO ENTRAIN

Trunks Packed and Ready for Big Campaign Tour—Wife Will Accompany Him.

(By The International News Service.)
Bridgehampton, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Tremendous Charles E. Hughes' summer home, was filled today from cellar to attic with letters, documents, statistical tables and other data which Mr. Hughes will take with him on his Western trip. The Republican nominee sat in a room full of papers, sorting out the more important. He has enough memoranda to fill several large trunks, but will take with him only one trunk of political ammunition.

Two new suits, which Mr. Hughes bought in New York the other day, hats and a large assortment of other clothing will be taken in two additional trunks.

Mrs. Hughes, who will accompany her husband, will take only one trunk and probably two or three hats.

The business of packing up and arranging personal affairs prior to his departure excluded political topics largely from the nominee's attention today. He expects to leave Bridgehampton tomorrow for New York.

BAREFOOT DANCE GIVES 'EM "PEP"

So Pretty Bathers, with "Footsies" Naked, Cavort on Sandy Sea Beach.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 4.—"Have you done your sand dance today?" This is the phrase that has taken the place of "How do you do?" at the beach towns surrounding Los Angeles.

Should an innocent newcomer ask for information, it is given in large chunks, liberally dosed with scientific terms. Here is what the heavy conversation all means:

"The soles of the feet most readily absorb vitality."

"Salt water soaked sand is charged with electricity."

"Rubbing the bare soles of the feet in the sand generates a life-giving radio current that routs disease and brings buoyant health."

"If you do a barefoot dance in the sand daily you soon will be soaring in spirit and so charged with electricity that you will want to leap from skyscraper to skyscraper instead of walking along ordinary sidewalks."

Devotees by hundreds are prancing, dancing, and chasing each other over the beaches, and scores are taking up the new fad daily.

Bathers are kept barefooted all day; the new, fifty bathing suits have been discarded by girls, and staid matrons do not hesitate to shuffle kingly along the less crowded parts of the beaches, shoes and stockings tucked under their arms.

N. Y. GOVERNORSHIP PUZZLE TO TAMMANY

Warden Osborne May Oppose Seabury
in Primaries, Should Wagner Fail to Accept.

(By The International News Service.)
New York, Aug. 4.—While Robert F. Wagner continued to resist the efforts of the Democratic campaign chiefs to draft him for the gubernatorial nomination today, search was made for a substitute to put against Samuel Seabury in case the Senator's declaration is final.

Thomas Mott Osborne, warden of Sing Sing, is the newest candidate talked about. He was seriously suggested at conferences in which Charles F. Murphy, National Committeeman Norman E. Mack, Senator Wagner, Patrick F. McCabe, William H. Kelly, Alfred E. Smith and other leaders participated. Anti-Seabury men urge that Osborne, who has bitterly fought the machine for many years, once running as a rump candidate for lieutenant governor, might deliver enough Progressive and independent votes to defeat Whitman, or at least beat Seabury in the primaries.

PENILESS, AGED COUPLE TRAMP

Frederick Man and Wife Hike to Harrisburg to Home of Relative.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Baltimore, Aug. 4.—With a rusty shawl pulled tightly over her bent shoulders a frail little woman, 72 years old, clung affectionately to the arm of her husband as the couple stood this morning before Justice Tormollan in the Southwestern Police Court to answer a charge of vagrancy.

Late last night they were found on a bench near Wilkens avenue and Brunswick street by Policeman Clark, where they had encamped for the night. At the station house they gave the names of Albert and Sadie Price, of Frederick, Md.

According to the story told by the aged man, he and his wife had met reverses, and, without funds, had started from their home to tramp to Harrisburg, where he had a brother who would provide for them in their old age.

On the road from Frederick they met automobile tourists who gave them a lift, and in that way they made their journey to Baltimore. Last night when they reached the Wilkens avenue bridge fatigue overcame them and so they decided to spend the evening on a bench.

After partaking of a few hard crusts and a bottle of beer given to them by a saloonkeeper the wife curled herself upon the bench and went to sleep, while Albert stood guard.

Then Policeman Clark came along and seeing the plight of the aged couple, took them to the station, where they were given comfortable quarters for the night.

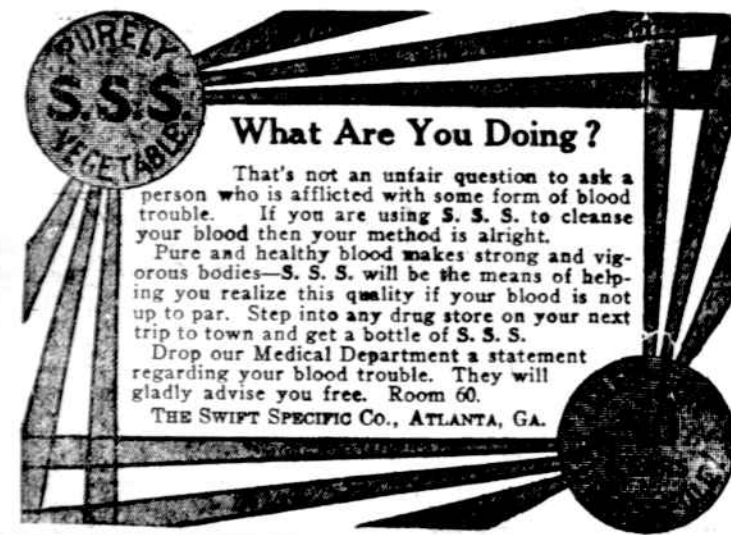

The couple were discharged and took up their long and dusty pilgrimage to Harrisburg.
